

UniRac Receives Award for Innovation and Excellence

ALBUQUERQUE, NEW MEXICO, February 27 , 2008 — UniRac Inc., North America's leading manufacturer of solar photovoltaic (PV) mounting architecture, is pleased to have been named recipient of the Duke City Dozen Award, awarded by the Albuquerque Chamber of Commerce. The Duke City Dozen Award recognizes 10 companies that have demonstrated innovation, excellence in business, and that have contributed to the community.

"UniRac is honoured to receive the Duke City Dozen Award, joining the ranks of many of Albuquerque's leading companies," says Douglas May, UniRac CEO. "As the solar industry continues to evolve at a rapid pace, UniRac remains committed to delivering innovative technology and advancements in PV mounting architecture, designed to meet the needs of our customers."

"We are very proud to have UniRac as a key member of the Albuquerque business community," said Terri Cole, Chamber President & CEO. "UniRac was chosen to be a recipient of this prestigious award because their work, in terms of sustainable energy, is not only relevant to the success of our economy, but to the world."

The awards along with a congratulatory letter from New Mexico State Senator Pete V. Domenici were handed out at a special luncheon on Tuesday, February 26th, 2008, at the Marriott Pyramid North, where finalists were invited to share their 'secret to success.'
